2024 City of Dallas Charter Review Commission

Honorable Mayor Johnson and Members of the City Council:

As Chair of the 2024 Charter Review Commission, I am pleased to submit the enclosed report and recommendations to the Dallas City Council for consideration.

The Commission concluded its work on Thursday, April 11. On Wednesday, May 1, I will brief the City Council on the recommendations contained in the report and the consideration given to each amendment submitted. Staff from the Office of Government Affairs will join me to detail the administrative processes by which we operated.

The Commission met fifteen times from September 27, 2023 through April 11, 2024. As a means of informing our deliberations, we received data and heard from city staff and subject matter experts at the National Civic League and International City/County Management Association, as well as the chair of the 2014 Charter Review Commission, Representative Rafael Anchia. For over three months, the Commission solicited amendment proposals from city staff, city councilmembers, and members of the public, ultimately receiving and deliberating on 125 proposed amendments. We recommend the adoption of 30 of those proposals.

Since the Commission began its work, we have been committed to public engagement and outreach. In the interest of engaging with all stakeholders, the Commission took several steps to ensure that all interested parties were aware of the work being done and providing forums in which to give input. Most notably, Commissioners partnered with the City Council offices to host 20 townhalls throughout the City. Additionally, staff and commissioners presented at meetings for organizations like the League of Women Voters, Downtown Dallas Inc., and multiple regional chambers of commerce. On April 1, the Commission also hosted a bilingual telephone townhall, which allowed us to engage with hundreds of residents throughout the city and solicit feedback from them on our recommendations. With the input of residents and stakeholders, we are pleased to present recommendations that we believe will serve to improve our great city and its governance.

The enclosed report includes, among others, proposed recommendations related to:

1. Allowing city boards and commissions to elect their own vice chairs.
2. Amending the petition process for ballot initiatives.
3. Allowing authorized residents to serve on the charter-created boards and commissions.
4. Changing the three-signature memorandum required for councilmembers to call a special-called meeting to a five-signature memorandum.
5. Broadening the city's notification process to include other media options in addition to newspaper publication.
6. Implementing a trigger clause so that ranked-choice voting is used in municipal elections if authorized by the state in future a future legislative session.
7. Increasing councilmember salaries to $125,000 per year and the mayor's salary to $140,000 per year, effective at the next election date and indexed to the Consumer Price Index going forward.

2024 City of Dallas Charter Review Commission

8. Requiring that the Office of Community Police Oversight director be appointed by and report directly to the city council.
9. Adding eligibility criteria for serving on the redistricting commission.
10. Allowing city council's appointments to boards and commissions to be replaced by city council prior to the completion of a member's term.
11. Creation of a Community Bond Commission.
12. Adding the Office of the Inspector General to the Charter with the requirement that the inspector general be appointed by city council.

Perhaps some of the most notable items in our deliberation are the omissions from our recommendation. Public interest in the work of the Commission focused on the length of terms for city councilmembers; expansion of city council; moving the election date for municipal elections; restructuring of certain city departments; and more. Ultimately, the Commission decided against recommending changes to these charter provisions.

The Commission also deliberated several items that are not included in its recommendations but which we believe could serve Dallas as policies implemented or amended by City Council. Those include:

- Establishing an Office of the Ombudsman within the function of the City Auditor, or under another council appointed office, as deemed appropriate.
- Re-visiting and strengthening the ordinance establishing the Community Police Oversight Board to ensure it is as effective as possible.

The Commission acknowledges that these recommendations must now be considered in a larger context and with additional perspective, expertise, and insight by those who may be expected to implement or work under these amended provisions but respectfully requests that you give them each due consideration, as they reflect conscientious effort and thoughtful deliberations of your appointees to the Commission, as well as constructive input from the public.

On behalf of the Charter Review Commission, thank you for the opportunity to serve the City of Dallas.

Sincerely,

Allen Vaught
Chair, Charter Review Commission
