There is an abundance of opportunities in the City of Dallas to lead North Texas in becoming an equitable, sustainable, and even more prosperous region. As the ninth-largest city in the nation, Dallas is home to more than 1.3 million residents. The region is rapidly growing, with more than 7.5+ million people.<sup>1</sup> A business-friendly environment and competitive location, North Texas is one of the world's busiest transportation hubs. It is also home to headquarters of almost two dozen Fortune 500 companies.<sup>2</sup> Anchored by strong network of higher education and healthcare institutions, Dallas is a national leader in healthcare, technology, financial services, defense, and transportation industries. Furthermore, the city is made up of richly diverse and growing communities which provides with a significant competitive advantage.

Despite these advantages, Dallas needs to proactively evolve in order to thrive and remain competitive in a global market. Globally, cities vie for residents, investment, and ideas, facing competition from neighbors and from around the world. Economic development in Dallas will be successful only if there is an exhaustive approach that meets the needs of businesses large and small, while simultaneously fostering job creation, attraction, retention, and workforce development at every level of the economy. Dallas could also improve its support to grow small businesses and entrepreneurship, and existing industries, as well as provide equitable economic pathways for all its residents.

Levels of job growth, living wages, and affordable housing must meet increasing need. Traditionally underserved neighborhoods should have direct access to equitable services to improve quality of life and create sustainable community vitality. Communities should have access to job opportunities within their reach. Currently, an unsustainable auto-centric environment, where more than 90% commute to work via car, which hinders access to jobs and housing for residents unable to get to hubs in Downtown. Dallas must fervently pursue solutions that aid communities in becoming whole and foster an environment for residents to achieve their full social and economic potential. Without these fundamentals Dallas will not achieve its potential to realize the full strength of a tax base that supports the comprehensive health, quality of life, educational, and social outcomes that make Dallas a truly leading global city.

The City must also face head on the inequities that have created a racial wealth chasm. This is most tangibly seen in the underinvestment and outcome disparities in Southern Dallas. A stark divide separates North and Southern Dallas. Southern Dallas encompasses only 15% of the tax base but encompasses 45% of the population. Southern Dallas has just 15% of the tax base. Due to the impacts of discriminatory policies, Redlining and disinvestment have negatively impacted and stifled prosperity and vitality in Southern Dallas. Southern Dallas communities have a lower median household income, worse health outcomes, and in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, some of the highest rates of infection. Looking at this divide, the correlation of this disparity is tied to race and place. Black households earn less than half in income than white households.<sup>3</sup> Nearly half of Black and Latinx renters are rent burdened, and 35% of Black residents and 28% of Latinx residents have zero net worth, compared to 15% for white residents.<sup>45</sup> According to a 2016 report by the Urban Institute, Dallas ranked a striking 272 out of 274 cities on inclusion.<sup>6</sup> Closing the racial equity divide is a moral mandate. It is also an economic mandate: moral and economic according to the National Equity Atlas, Dallas is losing $115 billion in GDP because of its disparities.<sup>7</sup>

Understanding the inherent challenges and immediate opportunities, the City of Dallas can design an inclusive and prosperous vision for Dallas' future. We can commit to and be held accountable to achieving success in economic development, housing and redevelopment efforts.

- Mission. To grow and diversify the Dallas economy in ways to create wealth and job opportunities for all residents. This can be achieved by prioritizing Southern Dallas and communities of color for whom structural disparities have hindered opportunity. The path includes attracting and strengthening businesses, building, and preserving communities, and repairing historic disparities in neighborhood investments, the built environment, and access to housing, employment, and social services.
- Vision. Dallas will be an inclusive, equitable, prosperous, and sustainable city that offers direct access and greater quality of life for all residents. Recognizing the interdependence of its economy, social fabric, and environment, the City of Dallas will create a path for high quality jobs through incentives and economic development tools. It will pursue diverse housing for residents, including essential workers. It will pursue advanced multi-modal transportation and resilient infrastructure. It will develop processes to promote a responsive and financially sustainable government agency. Finally, it will foster vibrant cultural, recreational, and historic amenities. Its policies will be designed to right past wrongs and plan for future generations.

In conclusion, the foundation for a strong economy for all, is inclusive of its residents, promoting and putting into action real solutions for communities to thrive. A healthy economy supports the creation of living wage jobs for a growing and increasingly diverse population. It supports a growing tax base for public services, and improves health, quality of life and educational outcomes. People with stable jobs and reliable incomes have the resources to meet their basic needs. This has positive physical and mental health effects on residents and in turn effects the contributions they make to their community.

Realigning the City of Dallas' economic development priorities is crucial to future equitable growth. There are several guiding principles that shape our course. An explicit commitment to correcting the disparities that obstruct the long-term economic potential of the city, with a focus on new land development and investment approaches south of Interstate 30. An understanding that local innovation and neighborhood-level interventions – including small business support –

The foundation of this economic development policy was drafted on the basis of developing a shared vision and a set of actionable policies in alignment across economic development, housing, planning and sustainable development in coordination with other city departments and community partners. In this context, the implementation of the policy leans one alignment. More specifically, the policy focuses on several key factors:

1. A comprehensive approach to economic development which fosters inclusive economic growth for both businesses and residents that call Dallas home.
2. The City of Dallas resources are limited. Doing more with less requires alignment designed to achieve unthinkable results in challenging times.
3. The economic growth of the city is not the singular responsibility of the City of Dallas. It requires collective community action.
4. The major goals and metrics are developed as a baseline to provide the framework to align, track and measure performance against the policy goals on an annual basis.
5. The establishment of an economic development corporation (EDC) to support the city in its ability to act quickly, market the city, buy, hold and sell land, foster public private partnerships and create a community-benefit agreements with business and industry.

The goals and metrics of the policy apply to a 10-year period with annual action plans, annual reporting and a transparent dashboard communicating progress toward policy goals. More importantly, the policy is supported by an evaluation matrix designed to support decision making in alignment with overall policy goals.

In addition to describing progress on the policy's goals, the dashboard and annual report is an opportunity to share new challenges and to make recommendations for adjustments to the policy that address issues as they arise. In this way, the policy can be adapted to align with a changing environment, ensuring long-term efficacy for the city of Dallas.

The overarching theme of the policy is to promote an environment that is conducive to creating, attracting, retaining, and nurturing businesses that support inclusive prosperity and equitable access to employment and housing opportunities for all Dallas residents. This is accomplished by emphasizing the following principles in our efforts:

1. Establish a development entity capable of marketing development opportunities and creating public-private partnerships to support economic growth and development.
2. Apply an equity lens to economic development decision making.
3. Pursue non-traditional sources of funding.

4. Create, attract, expand, and retain businesses or industries that pay a living wage.<sup>8</sup>
5. Stimulate entrepreneurship, small businesses, and startup growth.
6. Promote a range of housing options for the city's workforce.
7. Ensure that zoning and land use supports inclusive growth.
8. Strategically invest in economic growth below I-30, south of the Trinity River, and in historically underserved communities in Dallas.
9. Encourage innovation and commercialization of technologies, products, and services.
10. Maintain and enhancing the physical character of neighborhoods by ensuring that best practices in design and placemaking are incorporated into economic development efforts.
11. Enhance community outreach, engagement and communication.
12. Create walkable communities with varying transportation and employment options.
13. Provide a competitive supply of development-ready sites to meet demand for employment and housing growth.
14. Ensure predictable and efficient building, permitting, and historic preservation processes.

The following outlines proposed commitments to goals, actions, responsibilities, and metrics to hold the City accountable. Meant to be flexible and adaptable, actions can be updated annually and account for the intrinsic linkages between economic development, housing, urban planning, infrastructure, workforce development, and small business support.

In addition, they draw from current and past planning efforts, including the Office of Economic Development's Strategic Plan, forwardDallas! Comprehensive Plan (update forthcoming), Neighborhood Plus: Neighborhood Revitalization Plan for Dallas, Comprehensive Housing Policy (as revised), Comprehensive Environmental and Climate Action Plan, and Connect Dallas (currently under development).

Carrying out these actions requires authority and long-term capacity. It will also require proactive public-private partnerships with non-profit organizations, education and healthcare anchor institutions, private corporations, and residents. The city must mandate capacity and create a structure for accountability and external partner collaboration. Coordination and fluid communication across city departments is vital to successfully implement this Economic Development Policy.

Mechanisms could include carving out additional resources and revenue, exploring creative funding and financing tools outside of TIF, abatements, bonds. Initiating, assembling, and managing development strategies in underserved communities, and a high-capacity, proactive entity can lead the transformative change needed in Dallas's economic development approach.

In the absence of safe neighborhoods and strong resident engagement, economic growth cannot thrive. Thus, creating a deliberate intersection between economic development and public safety is integral to sustainable and progressive economic and social growth. This include addressing factors that contribute to crime (code enforcement, sanitation, blight, public nuisance, property decline, etc.). It is incumbent to target resources and identify measures for intersecting these components.

Implementing the actions described in the policy requires alignment to ensure the city provides the context to increase chances of being successful. As such, the policy is recommending a one-year transition period to allow staff and community stakeholders to put in place processes and refine policy elements. Without this transition, the policy may not be effective.

Recommendations include:

- Review and update the city's incentive programs to align with the action items and achieving the metrics described in the policy.
- Refine equity indicators in alignment with policy actions and metrics.
- Redesign/align of city RFPs for housing and economic development projects to support integration of policy actions and metrics.
- Complete the creation of the economic development entity.
- Align/refine housing tools to expand resources to support housing production.
- Review and refine scope of work for the comprehensive plan update to align with addressing smart growth and development and removing of impediments which restrict economic growth in historically underserved areas.
- Establish a streamlined and fluid process for partner engagement and collaboration, including agency, non-profit, and private sector support.
- Develop coordinated strategy to support public safety efforts that holistically address quality of life issues that tie directly into economic growth and social progress.

Additionally, staff will seek approval from City Council to hire an outside consultant to embed within the city to assist with facilitating structuring and activating the recommended process alignment measures. During this one year's transition period staff will be working on transition strategies and shall bring to the appropriate committees any items that may need to be refined to support the implementation of the policy.

Policies & Actions

Economic Vitality

For the city of Dallas, economic vitality is characterized by an economy that is resilient to disruptions, retains wealth within the community, and provides residents with access to economic opportunities such as living wage jobs, attainable housing, and a high quality of life. Ensuring that economic growth is beneficial to everyone in the city regardless of geography, race, or educational attainment, is central to Dallas's long-term advantage as a desirable place to live, work, and invest.

Actions that will further economic vitality include promoting a strong business environment, providing access to workforce development, strategically investing in the untapped economic opportunity in southern Dallas, ensuring a thriving downtown Dallas, and facilitating access to workforce housing in all areas of the city.

Ensure that economic growth is beneficial to everyone regardless of geography, race, or educational attainment is central to Dallas's long-term advantage as a desirable place to live, work, visit, and invest. While Dallas has a strong, business-friendly reputation and is home to some of the largest companies in the country, economic opportunities must continue to grow and, importantly, be shared among all communities.

Achieving long-term economic prosperity requires intentional efforts to stimulate job growth, especially for high-quality and accessible jobs, support small businesses and entrepreneurs from all backgrounds, meet increasing, pressing housing needs across neighborhoods, and strategically invest in Southern Dallas, where disinvestment has hindered economic opportunity.

Dallas will need to utilize and, in some cases, create new multiple levers and tools to make tangible change in delivering economic opportunity. Where existing incentives or strategies fail, the City must review – and reinvent – policies and organizational structures to keep them accountable to these economic vitality goals:

- Support the long-term growth of Dallas as the economic and cultural heart of North Texas.
  - Grow Dallas labor for by 100,000 jobs and increase share of regional job growth each year by 10%.
  - Build 90,000 new housing units, including 3,264 units of workforce housing each year.
  - Grow small businesses by 50%, and those MWBE-owned by 1.5x.

- 100% of all jobs created as a result of City of Dallas incentives will pay a living wage by 2032, defined as sufficient to meet minimum local standard of living<sup>9</sup>
- Increase Annual city sales and property tax revenue by 4% each year<sup>10</sup>
- Increase the property tax base in southern Dallas by 50%<sup>11</sup>
- 90% of building permits will be approved within two weeks
- Economic opportunity for all Dallas residents will expand by 60 % by 2032 through enhanced transportation mobility, transit-oriented development and aligned workforce development training as defined as all residents have and live in proximity to job growth and institutions that foster job creation
- Provide quality employment opportunities for residents of all neighborhoods and backgrounds.
  - 100% of all jobs created as a result of City of Dallas incentives will pay a living wage
  - At least 85% of workforce development program graduates receiving support from the City of Dallas are placed in emerging and stable job sectors related jobs.
  - Reduce household poverty by 50%.
- Tackle racial inequities in the distribution of wealth and opportunities
  - Close the racial wealth gap by half by 2032.
  - Remove legacy land uses which contribute to social and economic segregation
  - Double the tax base in Southern Dallas from 15% of the City's total tax base to 30%.
  - Increase disadvantaged, minority, and women-owned business participation in City of Dallas contracts by 30%.
  - Reduce # of families experiencing housing cost burden by 40%, defining households as housing cost-burdened if they spend more than 30% of income on housing.

Community Sustainability

Community sustainability plays a vital role in strengthening the resilience of the local economy. Through interwoven connects consisting of both social and economic conditions, creating a climate for citizens and business alike to reach their full potential is vital for the City of Dallas to flourish socially and economically. Investing in an inclusive, creative, multicultural city of complete communities where all people can thrive and feel safe strengthens the resilience and vibrancy of the local economy.

A complete community provides all people easy access to their daily needs while providing a high quality of life. The City's comprehensive plan calls for this type of community, characterized by a mix of housing choices, more housing near job centers, preserving historic structures, maintaining the physical character and built environment of unique areas, and capitalizing on transit opportunities. Dallas is a city of neighborhoods which are strengthened through housing, recreation, and retail opportunities as well as targeted business and industry development, which can provide jobs near housing.

The city's Comprehensive Environmental and Climate Action Plan warns that by 2050, Dallas may have an additional 30-60 days with high temperatures over 100° Fahrenheit. The effects of climate change will affect everyone, but not everyone will be affected equally. Vulnerable populations are most at risk to the impacts of climate change, and there is a role for the city to play in ensuring that economic development investments are made strategically to focus on creating a more resilient future. Examples of mitigating actions include aligning jobs and housing with transportation infrastructure, protecting and enhancing trees and green space, reducing emissions and waste, and improving access to healthy, local food.

Creating complete communities will help to address disparities in access to food and healthy options. The city's equity indicators report gives public health a score of 39.92 out of 100, with the greatest disparities in access to health care, population health, and maternal and child health.<sup>12</sup> Those living in southern Dallas have the least positive health outcomes, including lower life expectancy, higher rates of chronic disease such as diabetes, and less access to amenities that benefit health such as park space that is within walking or driving distance. While economic development will not solve these disparities, targeted investments in communities can make a difference.

Actions within this policy that will promote healthy, thriving communities include creating an inclusive city for all; encouraging a creative, multicultural city; promoting complete communities and connected neighborhoods; and investing in communities to promote safety and economic growth.

Dallas strives to be home to strong neighborhoods where residents have access to services, safe and clean environments, diverse arts and recreation, and an array of employment, housing, and transportation options. Through physical, environmental, and infrastructural interventions, aligning neighborhood-level partnerships and programming, and investing in active commercial corridors and vibrant walkable communities, all neighborhoods in Dallas should offer a high quality of life.

However, due to racist redlining policies and underinvestment, not all communities have such ample opportunities. A focus on closing the racial wealth gap and building community ownership must be a priority to building and preserving sustainable communities.

While there is an explicit focus on Southern Dallas in this document due to the concentration of inequities in these neighborhoods, we acknowledge that many neighborhoods outside of Southern Dallas have equally faced discriminative policies. We committed to using the same lens of restorative interventions to prioritize investments across the city. Our community sustainability goals are:

- Every household will have access to broadband.

Smart Growth & Development

Smart growth and development refer to a strategic approach which support the connection between a mixed development of uses at the neighborhood scale with an emphasis on creating walkable communities with an emphasis on place-making and people. Placemaking creates inviting and distinctive spaces where people want to live, work and play.

Placemaking can contribute to the financial bottom line through increased property value, tourism receipts, and firm recruitment and retention. Accessibility helps ensure that residents and visitors can find the housing, goods, services, and jobs they are looking for in ways that conserve energy and commuting costs, strengthen community fabric, and minimize pollution.

According to forecasts, Dallas will continue to have relatively strong demand for employment and household growth land development. However, most of Dallas land supply for employment growth is on land that has constraints or is already at least partially developed. With the northern sector all but built out, most of the buildable land is in the Southern sector of the city.

By concentrating on building more livable communities, Dallas will be able to reduce its reliance on the already congested highways and take advantage of city living at its best.

Dallas's long-term growth and development must be both sustainable and resilient. Through building walkable neighborhoods, investing in green building, infrastructure, and operations, enhancing transit systems, and making streets safe for pedestrians and cyclists, Dallas can improve mobility, enhance job accessibility, lower emissions, and strengthen the city for future generations. The City and its public-sector partners will leverage publicly owned land assets across the city to implement models for inclusive economic development and demonstrate successful models for private-sector adoption. These actions will contribute towards these smart growth & development goals

- Decrease greenhouse gas emissions by 15% annually with greater emphasis on creating walkable communities and transit-oriented development
- Increase resiliency of neighborhoods to climate change and natural disaster risk.
- Increase business growth at the neighborhood level
- Foster the creation of homegrown business at the neighborhood level.
- Increase transportation mobility aligned with land use direction in support of transit oriented development
- Foster walkable communities through zoning, land use, design and the integration of transportation planning with housing and redevelopment activities

1. Dallas will center environmental sustainability and climate change resilience in its long-term growth.
A. Track and improve energy efficiency and lower carbon emissions from new development, pursuing innovations in green building and operations.	Design metrics and targets around efficiency and emissions across sectors	TBD
	Review incentives measures to account for sustainability in project delivery and operations	OED

Evaluation Matrix

The evaluation matrix provides a flexible way to measure the degree to which an incentive project or decision point aligns with the economic development policy. For example, imagine two projects equal in size and use is requesting incentive support from the City of Dallas. The city has limited resources and must decide what project is best aligned with the policy. One project is simply asking for support with not much connected to the policy and the other is aligned. The evaluation matrix provides a means to align projects in support of reaching policy goals. This matrix provides a framework for beginning a discussion of incentives, programs, and policies and is not considered to be a final directive or guarantee of approval.
